Scenery Found in Abundance in Saline County

THE OLD STONE FACE in Saline county is a more remarkable likeness than its famed New Hampshire counterpart. The site is located east of Rudement, a village south of Harrisburg. (SIU Photo Service)

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of six articles and picture groups describing scenic, historical, and recreational features of the six-county Shawnee Hills area. The information and photos have been gathered by Southern Illinois University and made available to newspapers in Saline, Hardin, Pope, Massac, Johnson and Gallatin counties. Gallatin was featured in the first article and this week Saline county is featured in the article and pictures. Readers are urged to clip the articles and save until they can take a visit to spots suggested, not only for their own interest, but that they can take a visit to spots suggested, not only for their own interest, but that they may become familiar with them to tell others what's there and how to get there and encourage visits to the Shawnee Hills area).

Caves, mountains, bluffs and boulders; cactus, pine, cedar and wildflowers—a typical western mixture but one the average tourist would hardly associate with Southern Illinois.

Nevertheless, this combination of Wild West scenery can be found in abundance throughout southeastern Saline County only a brief drive from Harrisburg.

For those who don't mind "roughing it" a little, there are several beautiful points of scenic interest. One of the most engaging is the Little Garden of the Gods northeast of Herod. A gravel road from Herod, located 15 miles southeast of Harrisburg on route 34, takes you five miles to the Brian Colbert residence. From there, another road, unsurfaced at present, leads a mile to a parking area. Anvil Rock is about 100 feet from this point. Another quarter mile hike and you're in the heart of the area, which includes Camel Rock, H-Rock and a variety of other fantastic formations.

Well Worth Exploration

Although the Little Garden of the Gods is no place for high heeled shoes or Sunday suits, the sights are well worth the exploration. Wooded areas are easily passable and the undergrowth is not dense.

From the highest point in the Garden, 450 feet above Rose Creek to the south, the tourist is afforded an excellent view of the Shawnee National Forest. There are no picnicking facilities in the region at present, but further tourist development is being planned by Saline County and the Shawnee Hills Recreation Association.

700,000 Bushel Peach Crop

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—Illinois' peach production in 1957 will be about 700,000 bushels, about 42 per cent less than in 1956 and about half the average for each of the past 10 years, the State Federal Crop Service said today.

The service said the state's commercial apple production this year will total about 2,350,000 bushels, about 8 per cent below last year and 19 per cent below the 1946-55 average.

The apple estimate covers only the 25 commercially producing counties in the state; the peach estimate is for all peaches produced.

The service said many varieties of apples already have been harvested, and picking of Jonathans will start in about a week. Early varieties of peaches also have been harvested and picking of Elbertas is well underway.

Grover Fulbright Returns as Manager Of Rechter's Store

Grover Fulbright has returned to Harrisburg as manager of Rechter's store on the south side of the square.

He succeeds John Brake, who has been transferred to Rechter's Metropolis store and comes here from West Frankfort, where he managed a Rechter store the past year and a half.

Mr. Fulbright, who has managed the store here on two other occasions, will move his family into property they own on West Baker street.

Swap Day Chance To Sell Unneeded Saleable Items

SWAP DAY comes to Harrisburg tomorrow; so get out your unneeded saleable items, bring them into town, and get a price out of them.

If you haven't sold the items, you can get a second shot: You can have them auctioned. The whole deal is free.

There'll be space on the square for the commodities. It will be assigned at the headquarters tent on the southeast corner of the court house lawn.

So be there. Harrisburg merchants are sponsoring the event. One of them, the Little Egypt cafe operated by Orle Tanner, was inadvertently left out of the list in yesterday's Register.

Harry Purdue, 63, Dies in Danville Veterans Hospital

Harry Purdue, 63, 18 West O'Garra street, Harrisburg, died in the Veterans hospital at Danville Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Purdue had been visiting in Danville, where their sons are residents.

Born June 19, 1894, at Creal Springs, Mr. Purdue was the son of Lum Purdue and the former Miss Lydia Lynch. He was a retired miner, a member of the First Baptist church and of the American Legion.

In addition to his wife Mabel, he is survived by his sons, Harry L. Purdue and Charles E. Purdue, both of Danville; three grandchildren and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Mollie Deaton, Kankakee, Mrs. Verle Deaton, Marion, Mrs. Norma Riddle, Marion, Charles Purdue, Collinsville, Vernell Purdue, St. Louis, Mo., and Clarence Purdue, Lansing, Mich. Two brothers and one sister have preceded him in death.

The body will lie in state at the Gaskins funeral home until the funeral at 1:30 p. m. Friday. The funeral services will be held in the funeral home with Rev. R. J. Morman officiating. Burial will be in the Maplewood cemetery at Marion.

Altitude of 19 Miles

Record Balloon Flight by AF Spaceman Proves Man Can Exist in Outer Space

FREDERICK, S. D. (UP)—An Air Force spaceman, who spent 32 hours exploring the edge of the stratosphere, emerged from his record flight tired but thrilled to have proved that man can exist outer space.

Maj. David G. Simons, 35, a balding Air Force doctor, returned his huge balloon safely to earth near Elm Lake in northern South Dakota at 5:28 p. m. c. d. t. Tuesday. He had attained an altitude of more than 19 miles during his unprecedented flight.

He said his greatest sensation of height came Tuesday morning. "There was a layer of cirrus clouds just below me. They were close to me, just like you were in an airplane. Suddenly it ended, and the earth was 50,000 feet below. It was like looking over the edge of a gigantic, largest, cliff on earth."

The space pioneer brought back a tale of being surrounded by a purple sky, even in the daytime, and of observing the stars glowing "like an animal's eyes."

But of even greater importance, Simons proved that man can live for extended periods beyond the shackles of the earth's atmosphere. His ordeal was a major link in experimentation that may some day lead the way to space travel.

Council Approves

Purchase of Parking Meters; Mayor Says Motion Out of Order

The city council voted Tuesday, three to two, to buy 150 new parking meters but the mayor said the motion was out of order.

In fact, Mayor Claud Gibbons, who said he already had ordered 36 new Duncan meters himself for the new parking lot being prepared on West Poplar near Jackson, refused to entertain Police Commissioner Charles Hine's motion to buy meters, saying it was not clear.

However, Commissioner Hine insisted on a motion that the council buy a total of fifty new Duncan meters, for parking lot use, and one hundred Magee-Hale meters to replace ten-year-old Magee-Hale meters on the streets, and Hine's motion carried.

Reads Communications

The meter question was discussed at length several weeks ago, when Hine made a motion for purchase of meters. At that time the matter was dropped after the mayor refused to entertain a motion to buy, saying he believed there should be more study made on merits of the meters.

Parking meters came up early in the meeting when City Clerk Olive Patterson read two communications. One, a letter from the Duncan Meter Co. to the City of Harrisburg, directed to the attention of Mayor Gibbons, expressed thanks for the order for 36 meters and promised quick delivery.

The second was a telegram sent following receipt of the letter, dispatched by Finance Commissioner Don Williams to the Duncan company, declaring the order had not been authorized and that shipment would not be accepted.

After several items of business were disposed of Commissioner Hine said the time had come that the city had to have some new meters to replace worn-out ones on the streets, and for the new parking lot.

Motion is Seconded

He then made his motion that the city buy fifty Duncan meters for parking lot use and 100 Magee-

Fracas Between Williams, Nelson Follows Meeting

A corridor fracas followed Tuesday's meeting of the Harrisburg city council. Principals were City Commissioner Don Williams and Orval Nelson, a Duncan parking meter salesman.

The incident apparently was a result of accusations made during the council meeting.

Reports were that Williams brought up an accusation to Nelson in the hall near the door of the city clerk's office and that Nelson landed across the corridor. The incident was broken up by Chief of Police Ross Lane.

Williams then appeared in the court of Justice of the Peace Verner E. Joyner, admitted fighting and paid a fine of $16.40.

Record Crowd at SEIEC Meeting; Grantsburg Girl Wins Beauty Title

The largest crowd in the history of the Southeastern Illinois Electric Co-operative attended the 18th annual meeting, held Monday evening and all day Tuesday at the SEIEC headquarters on Route 142, Eldorado.

Tuesday morning was devoted to the organization's business meeting and Tuesday afternoon was highlighted by the beauty pageant.

Miss Betty Estes of Grantsburg was crowned "Miss SEIEC of 1957" and will represent the local co-op at the state-wide beauty contest to be held in Springfield early in September.

Miss Estes, a beautiful blonde with pleasing smile, is the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Estes and will be a senior at the Vienna high school this year.

Winner of second place was Miss Judy Garrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Garrett, Norris City. She was graduated from the Norris City high school with the class of 1957 and is engaged to be married.

Miss Janice Wilson, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wilson of Rosiclare, was the third place winner. She was graduated from Rosiclare high school last spring and will enroll next month as a freshman at Southern Illinois University.

There were twelve contestants in the beauty pageant.

During the morning session reports of the SEIEC's activities during the past year were heard, employees were recognized for outstanding records, three members of the board of directors were elected, there was entertainment by Keith Pierce at the electric organ and the "early bird" prize was awarded.

George Aydelott, president of the board of directors, gave the address of welcome and Rev. Austin Heuer, pastor of the Eldorado Presbyterian church, gave the invocation and benediction.

President Says Russia Trying to Take Over Syria

Indicates His Willingness for Rights Compromise

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today he is tremendously disappointed in the record to date of this session of Congress.

At his weekly news conference Eisenhower also took a cautious stand on the communist seizure of power in Syria. He said the situation is not an instance at present that justifies any action under the Eisenhower Middle East doctrine.

He charged that Russia is trying to take over Syria.

On domestic matters Eisenhower indicated a willingness to accept a compromise version of the jury trial amendment to the Civil Rights bill, somewhere between the Senate version which he still opposes and his original position.

The compromise proposal will be announced later today or Thursday by House Republican leaders.

Other highlights of Eisenhower's meeting with reporters:

—He expressed again his hope that the Senate would restore every cent of the reduced foreign aid appropriation to the level of the original authorization bill, then make the best possible deal out of a House-Senate conference.

—He said the 41 American students who have gone to Red China from the youth meeting in Moscow were badly advised and are doing a disservice to their country.

—Eisenhower said he plans to remain in Washington as long as Congress is in session, but that if the House and Senate wind up their affairs in about the next 10 days or so and if Mrs. Eisenhower's medical condition permits, he still hopes to take a holiday at Newport, R. I. He added, however, that his vacation plans become more indefinite each day.

Eisenhower was asked to appraise the congressional treatment of the administration program this year and to evaluate the job done by Congress. The President said that he had looked over the long list of recommendations he submitted to Congress last January and was tremendously disappointed that to date so many bills had not been acted on and in some cases not even accorded committee hearings.

Radar Fence

Without much fanfare, it was announced not long ago that the United States in cooperation with Canada has completed construction of the so-called DEW line, a kind of radar picket fence strung across the Arctic from Alaska to Baffin Island just west of Greenland.

It required 32 months to erect a series of radar stations in this largely isolated wasteland. But the result is of the utmost importance not only to America but to all those in the world dependent on this country for security in the event of attack.

The Distant Early Warning line is intended to give the United States roughly three hours' notice of the approach of hostile aircraft winging over the north polar cap.
It has been presumed long since that warning devices off the two coasts are reasonably adequate and that it was the shorter polar route that made us most vulnerable.

To all those who had a share in completing this vital work, the na-

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Justice Department Refused To Take Stand For Civil Rights Two Years Ago; Senator Hennings Repeatedly Tried To Get Justice Department To Take Firm Stand; Justice
Now Urges A Tough Stand On Civil Rights.

WASHINGTON. — It should be noted that one group working ardently to delay the civil rights bill until next year in order to pass a tougher bill, is the Justice Department.

To keep the record straight,
here is how the Justice Department has pussyfooted regarding civil rights in the past:

Jusssfoot No. 1—On July 27, 1955, exactly two years ago, Senator Tom Hennings, Missouri Democrat, chairman of the Constitutional Rights Committee and a member of the Judiciary Committee, wrote the Justice Department requesting its views on Senate bill 903 to protect the right of every citizen in political participation.

The Justice Department delayed more than two months trying to make up its mind. Then on September 8, 1955, it refused to make up its mind. "Whether this particular measure should be enacted," it wrote, "constitutes a question of policy concerning which the Department of Justice prefers to make no recommendation."

In other words, the civil rights bill which the Justice Department now wants strengthened and held over until next year was something upon which it refused to take a stand two years ago.

Jusssfoot No. 2—On March 22,
1955, more than two years ago,
Senator Hennings wrote the Justice Department asking for its opinion on Senate bill 906 to establish a commission on civil rights.
This is the same commission on civil rights now in the civil rights bill.

Five months passed, during which the Justice Department struggled to make its mind. Then it decided it couldn't make up its mind. On September 8, 1955, it replied: "Whether or not this measure should be enacted constitutes a question of policy concerning which the Department of Justice prefers to make no commitments."

Yet the Justice Department now wants a tougher civil rights bill passed.

Jusssfoot No. 3—On February
8, 1955, Senator Hennings wrote the Justice Department requesting its views on Senate bill 904 to strengthen the laws relating to convict labor, peonage, slavery, and involuntary servitude.

This seemed rather non-controversial. Few Americans want to continue slavery in this modern day and age. Nevertheless, the Justice Department waited three months, then timidly informed Senator Hennings April 19, 1955, that it "would have no objection to the enactment of this legislation." The Justice Department did not come out emphatically for it. It did not say the strengthening the laws against peonage, slavery, and involuntary servitude was a wholesome thing. It merely had "no objection."

Jusssfoot No. 4—On March 22,
1955, Senator Hennings also wrote the Justice Department asking its opinion on his bill to "amend and supplement existing civil rights statutes."

Two and one-half years have now passed. The Justice Department has not yet had the courtesy to reply.

Jusssfoot No. 5—On March 22,
1955, Senator Hennings also asked Justice Department for its view on Senate bill 907, an omnibus bill in which was combined many provisions of the present civil rights bill protecting the voting rights of Negroes.

Two-and-a-half years have now passed, and the Department of Justice has not yet replied to his request for its views.

GOP POLITICAL GOLD

"Just who in this administration finally decided," that it was a matter of good and sound public policy to do something or other to protect the constitutional rights of our citizens?

"Just what do you really suppose is now the reason for his sudden and unexpected interest which Mr. Brownell and other gentlemen in the Republican party's high command are taking in justice for Negroes?" he continued.

Probably he didn't expect an answer. But Congressman Dick Simpson of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Republican committee for re-electing congressmen, gave it in a private remark to other Republicans.

"If we pass a civil rights bill," he confided, "we can pick up almost every northern Negro vote and sweep the House of Representatives in the next election."

A fine site for picture-taking and hiking, the area includes many other bluffs and rock formations as well as a variety of unusual botanical life. Tables, stoves and rest rooms are provided for pic-

For those who enjoy mixing adon Eagle Mountain, offers plenty of both. To get there, drive eight miles east of Harrisburg on route 13 to a gravel road leading to Sulphur Springs Church. There are no signs at the turnout, but a stone house is located south of the highway and near the gravel road tourists may park at the church, three miles from the highway, and follow a footpath from there to the cave. It is a steep and rocky climb of about three-quarters of a mile.

Visitors must crawl through a narrow surface opening to get into the cave. Inside, however, are high passageways and chambers, the deeper ones hung with picturesque stalactites. The deepest reaches of the cave, pleasantly cool even in hottest weather, have never been fully explored.

Challenge to Tourists

Cave-explorers are advised to come equipped with flashlight and twine as well as rubber-soled shoes.

The Eagle Mountain area is undeveloped, but offers a fine chal-

for building a campfire or setting up a tent.

Rounding out the scenic picture in Saline County is the Horseshoe north on the country lane. On the north side of a bluff lies the heart of the upheaval, layers and mounds of rock and earth thrust into vertical position during a folding of the earth's crust thousands of years ago.

Local permission should be ob-

We Will Always Have Allergies, Physician Says

NEW YORK (AP) — If misery loves company, the nation's hay fever victims need never be lonesome. Either today, or in the future.

Dr. Max Grolnick, a leading authority on allergies, says "at some time in their lives, one out of every two or three persons develops an allergy."

It is not always a sneezy reaction to pollen, which many a watery-eyed soul is down with at this time of the year. It could be susceptibility to any one of hundreds of things, from paint to perfume, said Grolnick.

Just as disconcerting is the news that we always will have allergies with us despite all the research into the cause and treatment.

"It would be near perfect living if we had an allergy-free community," said the physician. "But I don't think we'll ever make it."
... new allergies develop with new chemicals, new drugs. And for every one we whip, we discover another."

Grolnick is in charge of the allergy division of the Jewish Hospital, Brooklyn, and clinical associate professor of medicine at the State University College of Medicine, Brooklyn. The division for 34 years has done research in and treatment of susceptibilities.

"There are two general types of allergies," Grolnick explained.
"One is inherited... a predisposition, I call it. This often is the case with an infant's eczema. The other is acquired, through contact.
Poison ivy is a good example of this type."

The most common allergy of all is hay fever. But Grolnick added, "that's a misnomer... there is neither hay nor fever involved."
Hay fever is a nasal rebellion against pollen from trees, grass or ragweed. Grolnick figures 3 to 5 per cent of the population suffers from it.

Molds are another common cause of allergy. These prosper in any damp area. Other common allergies are bronchial asthma, although Grolnick said it sometimes has other causes; the eczemas; food susceptibilities; reactions to metals, soaps and paints.

And women often prove sensitive to cosmetics, nylons, hair dyes and bleaches, he said.
Grolnick doubts we think our-

State Police to Recruit Members At Du Quoin Fair

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A state police recruitment program will be set up at the Du Quoin State Fair which opens Sunday, State Police Chief William H. Morris announced today.

The fair recruitment program was started at the Illinois State Fair here, with recruiters passing out application blanks and answer ing questions. It will be continued at Du Quoin, Morris said.

So far, the police chief said, 151 men have been graduated from police training schools and assigned to duty. The 151 new policemen were among some 1,700 applicants.

The 1957 Legislature increased the state's 600-man force to 1,100. State officials hope to have the force up to its newly authorized strength sometime this winter.

RALEIGH BOY MADE HAPPY—Dennis Russell, 11-year-old son of the Rev. and Mrs. C. E. Russell, pastor of the Raleigh First Baptist church, recently was presented with a bicycle equipped with balance wheels. Dennis, who at the age of three, was the second child in southern Illinois to contract polio during the 1949 epidemic, while the family lived at Herrin, has been unable to take part in recreational activities since that time. Bert Jones, county supervisor and trustee of the Raleigh Baptist church, and Fred Dodd, village mayor and blacksmith, got together and fixed up the bicycle so it would not turn over and which would permit Dennis the fun of riding and gaining the benefit of the exercise. Others who took the lead in this worthwhile project were Mr. and Mrs. Jim Parks. Shown above at the time Dennis received his bicycle, are Dennis Bert Jones (right) and Mr. and Mrs. Parks. Dennis expresses his thanks to all who helped provide him the wonderful bicycle. (Dewar Photo)

REXALL MEETING—Vince Langan, Rexall's mid-western sales representative, addresses Rexall merchants from nine Southern Illinois towns at a meeting Tuesday at Schriener's cafe. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss plans for the fall Rexall one cent sale, and the Super Plenum contest which will be officially announced in about two weeks. C. E. Denton, midwestern district sales manager, also spoke to the group. Harrisburgers who attended were: Charles Farrar, Bob Keltner, Gerald J. Smith, George B. Lee, Dr. B. E. Montgomery, and J. Cecil Sullivan. (Register Staff Photo)

THE STORY: The arrival of Cole Jethroe from Chicago, may be the signal for Dan and Eric Clement to kill Pete Dorsey. Pete, a federal prisoner, was kidnapped from Marshal Harney Blanchard, who doesn't know where Pete is being held. Lillian Jethroe, widow of the man whose death resulted from Pete's cowardice, says Cole is expected tonight.

The bell rang up at the front of the barn. Owen nodded at me and I turned and looked through the barn. Dora Peterson was up there.

"Dora Peterson," I said. Owen got up, grunting, and waddled into the barn. I stood and leaned against the door jamb, watching Dora move against the sun. She was the daughter of Jordan Peterson, 16 years old her last birthday. Her hair was the soft yellow of straw and she was skinny compared to a woman like Lillian. But there was a sassiness about her that I liked, even when it made me mad, and I could see how if she was handled right she would turn into a lot of woman. I wished I was somebody else so I could be the one to handle her. I was pretty sure I could. It was when I thought about girls, especially Dora, that I thought about leaving Blue Springs. The other things folks did to me I could stand because I could fight back. I didn't know any way to fight back when the girls wouldn't pay me any mind. Anything I did only made it worse. Like what happened with Dora that afternoon a year ago. Owen didn't let me wait on Dora on account of that afternoon.

A couple of times a week during the good weather, Dora came to the livery and rented a horse for a ride out on the prairie. She always asked for a lively bay that was Owen's best horse. Owen worried about giving him to her but she handled him all right. Dora used to talk to me some when she came for the bay. All she would say was something about hauling up on a stirrup or how long she'd be out with the bay. But she always acted like she mustn't get too close. She looked at me but I never felt that she saw me. I was just somebody around to help when she wanted to ride. Most of the time I'd fix it so I was the one who helped Dora up into the sidesaddle. I'd saddle the bay in the barn and lead him out front by the water tank. Ladies didn't come into the barn like the men, because of the smell, I suppose, and Dora sure thought she was a lady.

The day it happened Dora was especially sassy to me and it was hot and Owen made me do some hard work in the loft that wasn't necessary at all. Maybe that didn't have anything to do with it but maybe it did. Getting on the horse, Dora put her foot in my hands like always and put her hand on my shoulder, then took the reins from me with her other hand. When she was ready, I gave her a boost.

I think the cinch was a little loose. I think the saddle slipped a little just as she hit. I think I boosted too hard. Something sure happened because the next thing I knew, Dora's foot was gone from my hand and there was a long trailing scream and a splash and the most awful spluttering you ever heard. Dora had gone clean over the horse and landed smack in the water tank.

I just stood there with my mouth hanging open like a hay door. Most of Dora, with her pretty yellow dress and the bonnet with the sunflowers on it, was under the green, warm, stale water. The end of her sassy nose dripped water and so did the drooping flowers on her hat. Her hair looked like wet straw. And she was mad.

At first, I couldn't move. When I unstiffened, I wanted to cue and run. Then I came loose and reached for an arm to help her out. She swore at me. It was a sharp, stuttering kind of swearing, like she couldn't say enough, fast enough. She blistered me. All I could think about was where she'd learned it. She crawled out of the tank. She was about to say more along the same lines when somebody busted out laughing over on the hotel porch. Dora's eyes turned to points and she snipped around and went stomping off down Depot Street, laying a neat trail of water in the dust.

Dora's Pa came over before long and told me a few things, going over some ground his daughter covered pretty good. Then he told Owen a few. Then, after Peterson left, Owen told me a few. I think if he'd been paying me a dollar a week more or I'd been a shade less of a worker, he'd have sent me packing.

What happened was that I held onto my job, only when Dora Peterson came for the bay, I wasn't to go near her.

So when Dora came, Owen waited on her, like he was doing now. I figured Owen had her loaded on to the horse. When I got to the front door, she'd just pulled into Chicago Street. I watched her as long as she was in sight, riding south, a pretty sight on the long legged bay.

I looked over to the Prairie Haven. Blanchard was sitting in the shade on the porch. I lifted my hand. Blanchard saw it and did the same. He got out of the chair and came down off the porch. I figured he wanted to see me so I started out into the street. He met me halfway.

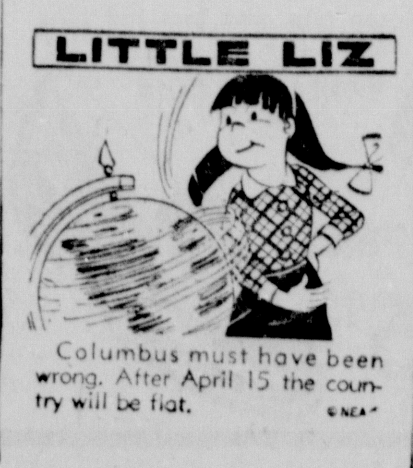

He said, "Meeting tonight, Pike. To hire a new marshal."

"Nobody in town would take that job. Maybe McNabb wants it back."

"Maybe. One of us should be there. Don't know that they'd let me in."

"I'll be there."

Adopt Short Pants

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—The U. S. Army announced the adoption today of a short-pants summer uniform for its troops in Europe. The new ruling applies only to duty dress, and does not affect the ban on German lederhosen—leather shorts—imposed two years ago as part of a general campaign to make off-duty soldiers dress more neatly and conservatively.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Sarcasm is a crude method for putting people in their places. We use sarcasm when we want to hurt others without directly slapping them. Slurring remarks sometimes silence our opponents but they never make people feel better.

Our nasty "back handed compliments" frequently work like a boomerang. Sarcasm sails off into space, grazes the spirit of the person at whom it is aimed, and lands back in our own laps. It scars our own consciences and we feel badly.

In time we may become hardened to this backlash of the slurs which hurt others and ourselves. When we become thus calloused we lose our ability to love and to be friendly. We cut off our contact with God and our fellow men.

It behooves all of us to seek the love of God as a remedy or a preventative of the illness of sarcasm. God loves even those

Pressure from Two Sides

Fourth R—Religion—Thorniest Dilemma Facing Public Schools

Editor's Note: This is the first of two special reports by the United Press on the growing national controversy over the place of religion in the public schools.

By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON — The thorniest dilemma facing America's public schools as they prepare for a new fall term is how to handle the "fourth R"—religion.

In hundreds of communities, across the nation, school administrators are caught in the middle of steadily mounting pressures from two directions.

On one side are parents, teachers and clergymen who believe that we wish to hurt. He can soften the scars which we inflict but we must turn to Him.

a child's education is incomplete unless it includes some knowledge of the religious beliefs that have helped to shape U. S. history, and in which millions of Americans find the ultimate values and motivations of life.

This faction includes most Catholics and a very large number of Protestants. It apparently constitutes a substantial majority in many communities.

Strong Opposition On the other side are vigorous dissenters who contend there is no place for religious instruction or observances in a tax-supported school which serves children of many different creeds.

This faction includes most Jews, some Protestants, and virtually all humanists, ethical culturists and militant unbelievers. Although it is often badly outnumbered, it is vocal in its protests and it has a powerful ally on its side—the Supreme Court of the United States.

Acting on an appeal brought by Mrs. Vashti McCollum, an atheist of Champaign, Ill., the court in 1948 outlawed a system which had been widely adopted by public schools to resolve the problem of how to teach religion in a country characterized by a great diversity of religious beliefs.

Under this system, called the "released time" plan, children were released from other studies at certain periods to attend religious classes taught by representatives of various faiths. Each child received instruction in the faith designated by his parents, or, if the parents, chose, spent the "released time" in a study hall.

The court held 8-1 that this plan breached the "wall of separation between church and state" erected by the First Amendment to the Constitution. It said any instruction in sectarian religious doctrine on public school property was illegal — no matter who did the teaching.

Some public schools — "a very small minority" according to the American Council on Education — took the McCollum decision as a mandate to banish all reference to God from their classrooms. These schools consider it their duty to teach "moral and spiritual values" but to ignore the religious convictions which support these values for most Americans.

Other school systems chose to ignore the Supreme Court. The state of Virginia, for example, still permits "released time" religious instruction in public school classrooms in 41 counties. At least eight other states, according to a recent survey, allow religious groups to use school property in various ways.

A large majority of public schools, however, have sought to work out a compromise between the limitations imposed by the Supreme Court and the voiced desires of many parents for some sort of "religious activity in school life."

A nationwide poll of school officials conducted by the American Council on Education indicates that the most popular solution is to provide school activities which are vaguely "religious" in nature, but which are so bereft of any specific doctrinal content that few would call them "sectarian" religion.

Here Are Examples Examples which turned up frequently in the American Council study include:

Reading passages from the Bible without comment (Old Testament passages are often stipulated if there are Jewish children in the school); "non-denominational" prayers calculated to offend no one; (New York public schools use the fourth stanza of the patriotic hymn "America"); grace before meals; special celebrations of major religious holidays (Christmas is usually linked with Hanukkah, Easter with Passover).

All of these activities involve at minimum, a recognition of the existence of deity. To an atheist, even this is "sectarian religious teaching" and therefore beyond the pale of the court ruling. But there evidently are few atheists like Mrs. McCollum who are ready to undertake costly court battles for their point of view.

Religious People Protest Protests have come rather from people of deep religious convictions who feel that exposure to this melange of vague religiosity will hamper instead of help a child in the development of a meaningful faith.

"What we are witnessing," says the famous Jewish attorney, Leo Pfeffer, "is the gradual emergence of a strange, new, hybrid creed, an artificial religion. It is different from any of the existing faiths, yet it resembles them all. This patchwork quilt might be called the faith of the lowest common denominator, or more simply, 'the public school religion'."

If there is one point on which Protestants, Catholics, Jews and unbelievers agree, it is that "public school religion" is an unsatisfactory answer to the problem.

Paid $150,000

Rackets Group Says Two Teamster Locals Buy Estate of Gangster

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rackets Committee said today two of James R. Hoffa's Teamster Union locals paid $150,000 for the country estate of Capone mobster Paul (The Waiter) Ricca.

Hoffa, accused of being an ally of the New York underworld, told the committee he never met the Chicago hoodlum and could find no trace of his name in the deal for the mansion.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said one of the union checks for the property bore the endorsement of Paul De Lucia. He said this is another name for Ricca.

"I say we did not purchase from Paul Ricca," Hoffa snapped.

The fast-talking Hoffa, probably next president of the Teamsters Union, said the estate near Chicago was bought by the union as a school in which to teach union officials how to handle welfare and pension funds. Hoffa said the estate was bought by Local 337 and him home Local 299, in Detroit, and turned over to the union's Joint Council 43.

He said after the purchase was first publicized, he had the abstract company check the records and could not find Ricca's name. He said he did not know Ricca and De Lucia were the same—or why someone named De Lucia got the union's check. He said the property was purchased from a trust company.

This was Hoffa's second day on the witness stand. Tuesday the committee went over his personal finances and brought out that he had borrowed about $120,000 from his Local 299 in Detroit, other Teamster officials and businessmen having dealings with the local. Most of the loans were obtained without paying interest, signing notes or putting up collateral. He still owes "around about $70,000" of this, he said.

The alleged link with Ricca bobbed up as the committee worked up to the main charge of its 15-day hearing: That Hoffa enlisted labor racketeers Johnny Dio and Anthony (Tony Ducks) Corallo to help him grab control of the Teamsters in New York.

Effingham Man Killed in Truck

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (AP) — Russell Carlisle, 38, Effingham, was killed Tuesday night when he was thrown from a dump truck he was driving over a country road south of here.

Authorities said it was not determined whether Carlisle lost control of the truck on the gravel road or was ejected when the truck hit a bump.

Ike Plans Flu Vaccine Shot When Available

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today that he plans to get a shot of the Oriental flu vaccine as soon as it is generally available.

Asked when he expected to receive the vaccine, he said just as soon as ordinary people like he was could get it.

Ohio has 5,400,000 acres of forest area, covering 21 per cent of the state's land.

County Fair Should Be Community Enterprise, Hancock Tells Kiwanians

The Saline County Fair should be a community enterprise with all civic groups taking part in its support, members of the Kiwanis club were told last night. Judge L. M. Hancock, member of the Saline County Agriculture Fair Association board, outlined to the club members the problems of presenting an annual fair without proper community support.

From the exhibitors' standpoint and the quality and number of livestock and floral hall exhibits, the fair was a great success, Judge Hancock stated. But, he added, from the support of the fine program which was presented and the lack of attendance, it was a failure.

The fair board, he stated, tries to present a varied program for everyone. There is no afternoon sessions as most fairs are night affairs in this area, he said.

He pointed out that the Fair Association is a non-profit organization with all money put back into the expansion and improvements of the fair itself. No salaries or dividends are paid to any of the officers or board members. He explained that the State Agriculture Department provides part of the funds for premiums and the remainder comes from entry fees and stall rental fees.

From the exhibitors' standpoint a total of 785 head of livestock and 622 floral hall exhibits were on display at the recent fair. Total premiums awarded were $18,872.

The recent fair had some of the finest shows presented at any fair in southern Illinois, Judge Hancock stated. Most of the other fairs had good attendance while the better shows had poor attendance at the Saline County Fair.

"The county fair should be a community enterprise and a meeting place for all civic groups and rural residents. Everyone should talk and boost the fair and help promote it as a community-wide effort," he stated.

The Kiwanis club will hold its ladies' night fish fry at Cave-in-Rock state park next Tuesday, Aug. 27, beginning at 6:30 p. m. There will be a board of directors meeting on Aug. 28 at Schnierle's cafe at 6 p. m.

Giant Postal Card Urges Eisenhower to Sign Pay Boost Bill

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — President Eisenhower is due to receive a post card with $6.96 postage in the next day or so.

Eighty-eight postal clerks are sending a card 43 inches by 28 inches, the largest allowable under postal regulations, to the President.

The card reads, "We urge you to sign the postal bill. We believe we are the victims of inflation, not the cause. One pay raise in six years is not enough."

The card is being sent air mail and special delivery.

contest developed for a place on the board of directors, with Escot Oxford, incumbent, and Kennis Wallace candidates for the Hardin county directorship. Oxford was the winner by a vote of 197 to 137.

Re-elected without opposition were Gilbert Galloway, Franklin county, 328 votes, and Thurman White, Williamson county, 333 votes.

The members of the board of directors will meet Tuesday, Aug. 27, to organize for the coming year.

Ten-year service pins were presented to Merle Dailey, Bernard Feazel, Robert Grounds, Ward Heilig, W. R. Lane, Earl W. Morse, James Pearce and Jack Vaughn, all of Harrisburg; George Gustin and William Kaegi, both of Cave-in-Rock; Harry Dale Livesay and Donald Lee Piper, both of Benton; Theodore Sliger of Wesson and Paul Vinyard of Golconda.

Wrist watches were presented for 3-years without missing a day's work to George Butler, Merle Dailey, Cecil Garavalia, Otis Hickey, Elmer Tallas and Floyd Teply, all of Harrisburg; Robert Cohnmeyer, Charles E. Jones and George W. Leeke, all of Eldorado; Nick Riggs of Cave-in-Rock and James Wallace of Golconda.

The 18th annual meeting of the SEIEC began Monday evening, featuring the talent contest and continued through Tuesday afternoon. Perfect weather and a fine program attracted record attendance.

Winners of the talent contest—who appeared on the Tuesday afternoon program—were the Arvey Brothers of West Frankfort, first; Donnie Hobbs of Golconda, second; Miss Pam Colbert, Ledford, third. The first place winners will go to the state contest at Springfield next month.

Mayor Declares Motion Out of Order

Hale meters to replace old ones now on the streets.

(The blue meters on the East Poplar street parking lot, which are manually operated, are Duncan meters. The automatic meters in use on streets are Magee-Hales.)

Hine's motion was seconded by Commissioner Sneed Jordan.

Then Gibbons said he already had ordered 36 Duncan meters for the new parking lot, so that would cut 36 meters out of what would be bought.

Gibbons said he had received reports that "the old mayor won't let us buy parking meters."

"Well," he continued, "the old mayor has bought 36, and that clarifies that part of it, I guess."

Orval Nelson, Duncan meter salesman, then took the floor to say he could sell the city some bargain Magee-Hale meters that were coming out of Morganfield, Ky.

He admitted to Hine they were used meters and said he didn't know how old they were.

Hine said the city needed new meters.

"We don't need any more old ones," he said. "That's what we're trying to get rid of."

Mayor Gibbons said he was of the opinion that Nelson's Duncan meters were better than the Magee-Hale because the Duncans are manually operated.

Hine said: "My two departments (police and fire) tell me the automatics are far ahead of the manually operated ones."

The mayor later said he would accept a proposition whereby the city would buy 53 Duncans and 53 Magee-Hales.

When somebody remarked that about 150 would be needed altogether, he said "The 36 are already ordered."

Refuses to Recognize Motion
Commissioner Williams then said the meters are not ordered until approved by the council.

"They may be approved but they haven't been yet," he said. "The mayor cannot take it upon himself to spend $1,800 for meters without the expenditure being approved by the council."

After further discussion, Hine said he had a motion before the house to buy fifty Duncan meters and 100 Magee-Hales.

The mayor said the motion was out of order and Commissioner Jordan asked him why.

"The motion must be called for by the chair," Gibbons said.

Hine made his motion again and the mayor said he refused to recognize it. Hine then said he was appealing to the council for a vote on the measure and a vote was taken.

Other Business
Voting in favor were Hine, Jordan and Williams, with Gibbons and Commissioner Morris Darnell voting against.

The mayor claimed the motion was out of order and the council went on into other business.

The council accepted the proposition of the Harrisburg Lions club to put trash containers around the square.

The annual levy ordinance was approved.

The water department was directed to collect some old unpaid bills for materials and labor obtained from the city, chiefly on installations. The council directed the water department to shut off water where bills were not taken care of.

Traffic Deaths Down in July, First Month Under New State Speed Limit

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The state Highway Division today reported the number of traffic deaths in July—the first month under the new state speed law—were down 26 per cent from July, 1956.

There were 130 traffic deaths in July, compared with 177 in July, 1956.

Gov. Stratton commented that "this is the lowest total for any July since 1946" and "the lowest death total for any month in the past year and a half."

The new speed law fixing a maximum of 65 miles an hour for automobiles and lower limits for trucks and buses and a 500 man increase in the state police force were the key measures in Stratton's highway safety program approved by the 1957 Legislature.

Stratton said that while he state's total traffic toll for the first seven months is still running

J. A. Williams Rites Thursday At Rudement

The funeral of J. A. Williams, 74, RFD 3, Harrisburg, who died in the Lightner hospital, Monday, will be held in the Rudement church at 2 p. m. Thursday. Rev. Carl Downey will officiate and burial will be in the Elmwood cemetery at Equality.

Although Mr. Williams was born in Kentucky he had lived most of his life in Illinois and was married to the former Miss Sarah Bowman of Shawneetown in 1909, who survives. The children of this marriage who survive are as follows: Mrs. Nora Lee Wallace, RFD 3, Harrisburg; Mrs. Anna May Plante, Lapeer, Mich.; Mrs. Mary Ellen Kennedy, Carrier Mills; Mrs. Louise Hull, Pontiac, Mich.; James E. Williams, and W. H. Williams, both of RFD 3, Harrisburg; Mrs. Hazel Haney, Kanakake, and David Williams in the home.

The body will lie in state at the Gibbons funeral home until time for the funeral.

State Police Captain Elza Brantley Named Battalion Commander

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — State Police Capt. Elza Brantley, Murphysboro, has been temporarily assigned as battalion commander for Districts 3 and 4 in Cook County, it was announced today.

Brantley was named to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Capt. Wilbur Kennedy, who died Monday. The appointment is effective next Monday.

Brantley was commander of Districts 11 and 13 at East St. Louis and Du Quoin. No replacement for him in this command was named.

Bob Keegan, Cut Loose By Yanks,
Hurls No-Hitter for White Sox;
Cardinals Win Two

By United Press

There was a short pause in the pennant races today to welcome Bob Keegan into the no-hit, no-run fraternity and to let the Yankees ponder why they ever allowed him to get away to the White Sox.

Keegan, a 36-year-old right-hander, was cut loose by the Yankees five years ago, written off as a chronic sore-arm case who would never make his mark in the majors. But he did it Tuesday night when he pitched the first no-hitter of the season to beat Washington, 6-0, in the nightcap of a two-night doubleheader. The Senators won the opener, 5-4.

Keegan walked only two batters in fashioning his no-hitter, the first in regular major league season competition since Sal Maglie of the Dodgers turned in one against the Phillies last Sept. 25. The only no-hitter since then was Don Larsen's perfect game against the Dodgers in the World Series last Oct. 8.

Eighth Victory
The victory was Keegan's eighth of the season and it was made possible by a five-run third inning, during which Larry Doby hit a two-run homer. Ed Fitzgerald's eighth inning homer for the Senators broke up a 4-4 tie in the opener.

Ralph Terry, another pitcher the Yankees let get away, came back to haunt them Tuesday night when he beat them, 1-0, for Kansas City. The A's collected only two hits off Bob Turley but those hits resulted in the only run of the game when Woody Held doubled in the fifth inning and scored on Tim Thompson's single.

The loss was Turley's first against the Athletics, whom he had defeated 11 times previously during his career. It was also Kansas City's second victory over the Yanks this season in 18 meetings.

Cleveland beat Boston, 5-4, and Detroit licked Baltimore, 5-1, in the other American League games.

Braves Beat Pirates
In the national League, first-place Milwaukee rallied for two runs in the ninth to defeat Pittsburgh, 3-1; the Cardinals took two games from the Giants, 4-3 and 3-2; Brooklyn swept a pair from Cincinnati, winning the opener, 11-5, and the 12-inning nightcap, 6-5, while the Cubs beat the Phillies, 5-2, in the nightcap after dropping the first game, 2-1, in 10 innings.

Southpaw Warren Spahn of the Braves held the Pirates to seven hits in gaining his 15th triumph. With the score tied 1-1, the Braves pushed over a pair of runs in the ninth on Red Schoendienst's single, Eddie Mathews' triple and another single by Hank Aaron.

Stan Musial slammed out five hits, including a homer in each game, to help the Cards to their two victories over the Giants. Sam Jones scattered 10 hits in the opener while 18-year-old Von McDaniel gave up eight hits in the nightcap, including a homer by Daryl Spencer. Ken Boyer and Eddie Kasko homered for St. Louis in the opener.

Duke Snider's 33rd homer of the season and second of the night in the 12th inning decided the nightcap for Brooklyn after the Dodgers had capitalized on a fine relief job by Ed Roebuck to top the Redlegs in the first game.

Win Streak Ends
Roebuck hurled three-hit relief ball for 5 2/3 innings and slammed his first major league homer to gain his fifth victory in the first game. Reliever Don Drysdale was the winner in the finale.

Stan Lopata's 10th inning homer snapped the Cubs' six-game winning streak as Curt Simmons and Dick Farrell of the Phils combined to pitch a three-hitter in the first game. Robin Roberts suffered his 17th setback in the nightcap when he was tagged for back-to-back homers by Ernie Banks and Jerry Kindall in a three-run fourth inning. Reliever Don Elston was the winning pitcher.

Robinson Calls Off Fight But
Leaves Loophole

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson formally called off next month's million-dollar fight with Carmen Basilio today, but he left a loophole for it to go on again.

Robinson said his formal withdrawal from the Yankee Stadium fight Sept. 23 was mailed today to the New York State Athletic Commission; but, nevertheless, he would fight if promoter Jim Norris came to terms quickly in their dispute over theater-television.

"Meanwhile, my attorney, Martin Machat, will start legal proceedings against Norris and his International Boxing Club for breach of contract," the middleweight champion said.

Admittedly surprised, Norris stated, "The fight's still on as far as we're concerned, and there'll be no change in the theater-television arrangements."

Equally confident that the fight would be staged, welterweight champion Basilio continued training at Alexandria Bay, N. Y., for his attempt to wrest the middleweight crown from Robinson. Basilio commented, however, "If Robinson runs out on this fight, I'll know he's afraid of me. He looked petrified at the signing, anyway."

The dispute is about who shall handle the theater-TV. Norris has signed a contract with Theater Network Television, Inc., the closed-circuit organization that presented 15 previous IBC fights, starting in June, 1951.

Robinson insists that the Teleprompter Corp., which handles much industrial and convention closed-circuit work, be given the fight because it had guaranteed a minimum of 400,000 theater seats, which would translate into about $250,000 for Robinson's end.

That's 150,000 more seats than TNT could guarantee, Robinson says.

Keegan Credits
Slow Windup
For No-Hitter

CHICAGO (AP)—Bob Keegan of the Chicago White Sox said today that a new "slow motion" windup helped him hurl the season's first no-hitter.

The 36-year-old right-hander, once considered washed up because of arm trouble, tried out his new delivery Tuesday night for the first time as he blanked the Washington Senators, 6-0, walking two batters and striking out only one.

In demonstrating his new windup, Keegan said it is similar to a golfer taking a slower backswing.

"In other words, instead of pulling my arm back in a hurry in the preliminary motion, I do it slowly," he said. Keegan said this gives him more control and helps to keep him from tiring.

Keegan said he was "confident" that his new style was working by the fourth inning.

"I could tell then that the Senators didn't have any hits in them," he said.

Keegan said that when he faced Pete Runnels, lead-off batter in the eighth, he was "sure" of a no-hitter.

"My new windup took the batters by surprise. I'm sure the Senators weren't prepared for it," he said.

Keegan said he served up mostly fast balls "as always" and gave a lot of credit to catcher Sherm Lollar for calling the shots.

In tossing the first regular season no-hitter since Sal Maglie turned the trick last Sept. 25 for the Dodgers, Keegan started out by retiring the Senators in order thru the fourth inning.

In the fifth, after getting Art Schult to foul out to Lollar and Runnels to loft a long fly to center field, he spoiled his chance for a perfect game by walking Lou Berberet after throwing him two strikes.

The White Sox right-hander suffered another brief loss of control in the fifth inning when he issued a walk to pinch-hitter Faye Throneberry, who was subsequently erased in a double-play.

Keegan encountered no trouble thereafter as the Senators went down in order.

Keegan received a thunderous ovation from the crowd of 22,815 when he batted in the eighth. The crowd anticipated a no-hitter after watching the Senators defeat the White Sox 5-4 in the opener of the two-night double-header.

No Squirrels, But
Hunter Tired by Bull

MARION, Ill. (AP)—Loren Henson, Marion, went squirrel hunting during the weekend. He didn't find any squirrels, but he did find a bull.

The bull chased him up a tree. Henson was wandering thru a field when he spotted a bull charging toward him. Henson managed for a tree, shinned up just a jump ahead of the bull.

The bull butted the tree for several hours, Henson said, finally gave up, and the man climbed cautiously down.

Social Brethren (Pony), Social Brethren (III), McKinley Baptist Win in Kiwanis

Social Brethren's Pony league team beat McKinley Baptist, 11-6, the Social Brethren III leaguers downed Athletic House, 7-2, and McKinley Baptist National league champions pounded Sahara Coal, 12-2, in Kiwanis games Tuesday.

Social Brethren scored five runs in a big fourth inning in defeating McKinley, 11-6. Pollard blasted a homer and a double and Simpson homered and singled to pace the winners, while Sweat, Bennett, Hall and Pankey safetied once. For the losers Hefner tripled and singled and Kuppert, Taylor, Hazel, Davis and Roger Nelson hit safely once. Allen was the winning pitcher.

Beal scattered five singles to pitch Social Brethren to victory over Athletic House. In only one inning, the second, did the losers manage to get two base runners. Roberson, the losing pitcher, also gave up only five hits, but he walked two and his teammates made six errors afield. D. Hutchison doubled and singled for the winners, and Estes had two Athletic House hits.

McKinley won its eighth straight game of the second half by downing Sahara, 12-2, and finished the season with a dazzling 15-1 record, the undisputed champions of the National league. Hefner, also a Coal Belt pitcher, hurled a five-hitter against a lineup including Junior Legion stars M. Stone, G. Aldridge, B. Clark, J. Pickford and B. Biggs. Nelson tripled and doubled, Syers doubled and singled and Hefner, Beggs, Wasson, Pavelonis, Henshaw and Hicks safetied once for the winners. D. Biggs tripled, Stone and Stricklin doubled and Banks and Clark singled for the losers.

Today's Games
3:30, Social Brethren vs. First Baptist (III); 5:30, Athletic House vs. Ridgway (III); 8:00, Harrisburg VFW vs. Bluford Legion.

Thursday's Games
1:30, Barger's Accountants vs. Walker's Cleaners (first Pony playoff); 3:30, Athletic House vs. Shawneetown (III); 5:30, Ridgway vs. First Baptist (III); 7:30, Stain's Tin vs. Pankey's Bakery (National).

CORRECTION
First Baptist's III league record should read five wins, two losses, instead of five wins, one loss, as incorrectly listed in Monday's Register.

Verdi's opera, "Aida," was commissioned for use as part of the festivities celebrating the opening of the Suez Canal.
